

Heavy metal water pollution from factories	Waterborne algae blooms from farms using too much fertiliser	Water from landfills leaching into the water of rivers and lakes.	Water from mines leaching into rivers
Landfills filling up	Electronic waste thrown into landfills	Excessive plastic use that never breaks down	Soils contaminated by heavy metals from the water so food is poisonous
too many cars on the road making air pollution	coal power is mostly used to make electricity and makes the air highly polluted, often causing cancer	Acid rain from factories and coal power plants makes the soil too acidic to food	urbanisation is taking land away from the animal populations, decreasing biodiversity
global warming is melting the ice and decreasing water available from the Himalayas	Deforestation is decreasing the air cleansing ability	Deforestation is increasing the size of the desert as it removes vegetation that would stop the growth of the desert	Endangered animals are poached for their skin and tusks.